

FileWave Discord Server

Everyone who uses FileWave appreciates learning more about it and being able to discuss ways of using it with other customers. For that reason, we also run a Discord server that can be accessed via the button below. Look forward to live events with demos and training for all and AMA sessions.

Step 1: Join Discord - If you are new to Discord then you'll see the below text on the login screen and you can create a free Discord account.

Step 2: When you join you'll initially see 3 channels if you are new to Discord and it needs to verify you are a person. Make sure to go to verify-here if this is all you see and click the button to verify.

Step 3: Check out the events channel where you'll see all of our scheduled events. There you can use the  icon to RSVP for an event and see a simple list of all the upcoming events. We have things like monthly Open Office Hours where you can ask our Pro Services / Training department anything.

 Feeling stuck? Reach out to Customer Technical Support and we'll help get you through it.

Don't know what Discord is? Discord describes itself this way: "Imagine a place where you can belong to a school club, a gaming group, or a worldwide art community where just you and a handful of friends can spend time together. A place that makes it easy to talk every day and hang out more often." It's very popular as a chat platform and very community driven. Below is an excellent video to explain how to use it.
